- Conducting studies, entering and analyzing data, assisting in preparation of scientific publications
- Creation of new formats for teaching
- General organizational and administrative tasks

Work Scope:

approx. 6 - 10 h per week

Duration:

- Start: from approx. September.2025 for an initial period of 12 months
- If suitable, further employment and longer-term cooperation will be sought.

About you:

- Interest in empirical educational research
- Basic knowledge of empirical research methods (quantitative/qualitative)
- Willingness to familiarize yourself with data analysis (e.g. SPSS, R) and literature reference management programs (e.g. Citavi, Endnote)
- Confident use of common Office applications
- Ability to work independently, a team player, reliability and friendly demeanor
- Most tasks require German at native speaker level, others excellent knowledge of English required

Candidates:

Students of the teaching, educational sciences, psychology or students with corresponding subject-related qualifications (e.g. knowledge of statistics) in the Bachelor's or Master's program

Our offer:

- Remuneration and holiday allowance according to TV-L (official wage agreement in the public service sector)
- Insight into the practical field of empirical educational research
- A learning-oriented work environment
- Work in a young and highly focused team
- Flexible working hours (by prior arrangement)

Interested?

We look forward to receiving your (preferably digital) application (one pdf file with cover letter including preferred weekly number of work hours, CV and copies of certificates), sent by email to psyll@sot.tum.de.
